

The greater demand for remittance to Europe, leading, in the absence of available products for export, to a heavy specie export, has caused an advance in the premium on gold. The exports of specie last week amounted to $2,120,000, making $15,538,582 since January 1st. The travel to Europe is unusually great, causing a large demand for exchange, to meet which, as well as to pay for imports, there is no sufficient offset in the way of demand for our securities or our products, excepting gold.

The Philadelphia Gazette expostulates, somewhat mildly, against the demand of the radicals for the disfranchisement of the people of the South. As a matter of fact, it says, no test that may be applied will avail, as has been shown in Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Virginia; and as a matter of policy it maintains that it would be injudicious and wrong to exclude from the privileges of citizenship those who have submitted in good faith to the authority of the national government.

The return made of the public debt to 31st May, showing its aggregate of all issues now to amount to $2,638,205.753, would indicate that it is likely to exceed in the end the three thousand millions which has been roundly named as the limit, and which some have so generously proposed (but not many seem disposed) to pay off by private subscriptions.

So far about 62,000 bales of cotton of the amount captured at Savannah, Charleston and Mobile have been turned over to the Treasury Department as required by law. A large number of applications for the return of abandoned or captured property have been presented, and simply filed in the Department.

The Chamberland Alleganian says the collieries in that region are now generally at work, though the miners are on half-time. The shipment of troops westward has prevented the transportation of coal, only to a limited extent.

Oil wells have been commenced in California.
